horse brings quite as many calls from people seeking pleasure in off hours. Good harness horses are much more common than good saddlers and are quite as much in demand. In spite of the increase in automobiles, many people, perhaps because it is getting to be a novelty, still hire buggies for their Sunday trips into the country.

High cost of labor and feed—it takes "food" to keep a barnful of horses going—have cut down on livery profits until the owners say that it is no longer profitable to keep a large stable. But it is, at least, still possible to get a horse for an occasional ride.

AIRPLANES PROVE UTILITY
Records Show 115,133 Passengers Were Carried Safely.

Commercial airplanes broke all previous records during the last twelve months. A total of 115,133 passengers flew 3,136,550 miles in commercial airplanes without the loss of a single life. These figures were given by the Manufacturers Aircraft Association and are based on the performance of 425 planes. There are 1,000 commercial planes operating in this country.

Much of the distance was made on short flights of ten to fifteen miles, for which an average fee of $12.50 was charged. An increasing demand for aerial transportation between cities has been noted, and the average charge for this service has been 65 cents a mile. On practically all intercity flights baggage has been carried.

There were 223 forced landings and 38 accidents.
